

Sen. Schumer calls for REPLACEMENT of Americans who can't have babies after mRNA depopulation jabs

(Natural News) Yes, you are being replaced. Once derided as a racist conspiracy theory, "replacement theory" is not only confirmed but even touted by Democrat Sen. Chuck Schumer who yesterday claimed that millions of illegals must be granted amnesty because the US population "is not reproducing on its own."

Of course, that's because so-called "vaccine" injections — actually mRNA depopulation bioweapons — are causing widespread abortions, stillbirths, infertility and deaths. As expert analyst Ed Dowd told this reporter yesterday, post-vaccine excess mortality across the population at large is running around 32%, meaning an extra 2,400+ Americans are dying each day thanks to the mRNA jabs. And that's on top of the 7,700 or so that normally die each day, bringing the total daily deaths in America right now beyond 10,000.

After pushing the genocidal vaccine, Sen. Schumer's claim that "we have a population that is not reproducing on its own" seems tone deaf. Does he not realize his own vaccine mandates are killing off Americans? (Most likely, he knows full well.)

Illegals — who are not required to be vaccinated and are therefore fully capable of reproducing — are pouring into the country by the millions while both Dem and GOP senators push genocide for Americans. This is the crime against humanity that's playing out right now, right in front of our eyes... and Schumer isn't even trying to hide it anymore.

Chuck Schumer says Democrats want to pass an immigration bill because "we have a population that is not reproducing on its own with the same level that it used to."

Schumer then calls for amnesty for "all 11 million or however many" illegal immigrants in the U.S.

I find it astonishing how brazen this entire scheme is. They kill off Americans with bioweapons injections, open the borders to a migrant invasion, grant the migrants amnesty (and voting rights) while rigging elections in plain view, then they claim anyone who doesn't like what we're all seeing is a "threat to democracy."

Unreal.

Germany preparing for blackouts, bank runs and widespread social chaos

Meanwhile in Europe, the German government is preparing for power grid failures this winter as energy scarcity continues to plague the continent. Reuters has even managed to report on the anticipated blackouts, although the news agency pretends Germany's energy crisis has nothing at all to do with America blowing up the Nord Stream pipelines. (Leave it to Reuters to lie with authority about everything that matters.)

According to Reuters, German banks are planning on halting customers from taking out their own money. It also seems they are anticipating such a horrible fuel shortage that fuel will have to be reserved for vans that distribute cash to banks in order to keep up with cash demands from the public:

The plans include the Bundesbank, Germany's central bank, hoarding extra billions to cope with a surge in demand, and possible limits on withdrawals, one of the people said.

Officials and banks are also looking at distribution, discussing for example priority fuel access for cash transporters, said others, commenting on preparations that accelerated in recent weeks after Russia throttled gas supplies.

German financial regulators worry that banks are not fully prepared for major power outages and view it as a new, previously unforeseen risk, said an official with direct knowledge of the matter.

The story acknowledges that in a grid down scenario, only cash would remain a functional form of payment. Note that in America and much of Western Europe, people tend to buy things via electronic transactions (credit and debit cards) and aren't using much cash on a day-to-day basis. This underscores how difficult things will become if grid failures strike those nations where cash is rarely used.

California runs out of money and El Salvador is about to go bankrupt due to a bad Bitcoin bet

Today's Situation Update podcast (below) also covers California finding itself $25 billion in the hole, following years of looting and corruption by Newsom and the cabal of California Democrats who essentially function as a criminal mafia. Care to guess where a lot of that money went? Slush funds for future political contributions when Newsom makes a run for the White House, of course.

El Salvador, adding to the insanity of the recent crypto carnage, is now \$70 million in the hole after betting public money on Bitcoin last year. The crypto coin's value has plunged more than two-thirds since then, leaving El Salvador looking like it's being run by haphazard teenage morons rather than fiscally-aware adults.

Crypto values have plunged more than 70% across the board since 2021, and with the latest FTX implosion, institutional investors are fleeing the crypto space as quickly as possible, realizing that there's no faster way to vaporize billions of dollars than to hand them over to undisciplined, delusional twenty-something "do gooders" who think they're God's gift to this world because they label themselves "effective altruists" while burning up everybody else's cash. (Seriously, FTX's former CEO Sam Bankman-Fried still thinks he's an angel. The lack of self-awareness is beyond astonishing...)

The crypto bubble has finally burst. It was inevitable, of course, since cryptocurrencies are created from nothing and backed by nothing. As FTX investors just realized — the hard way — so-called "values" assigned to cryptocurrencies like the FTT token are just imaginary fantasies with no basis in reality. I was telling people this very thing eight years ago, but nobody wanted to listen because they all thought they were "getting rich" in crypto. Lesson learned: Never try to tell people engaged in a digital tulip mania that their tulips are worthless. They will get angry about it and just buy more tulips.
